Report The Tagore College of Pharmacy successfully organized a Career Guidance Programme on "AI-Powered Healthcare Careers & Job Readiness" on 24th June 2026 from 10:45 AM to 11:45 AM, with the active participation of B. Pharm students. The programme commenced with a welcome address emphasizing the importance of technology and artificial intelligence in shaping modern healthcare careers. The session was conducted by a representative from Nextenti, India's leading AI-powered healthcare staffing platform. The resource person introduced students to the various features of the Nextenti platform, including profile creation, resume upload, AI-based job discovery, personalized job alerts, and application tracking. Students were guided on how to build a professional digital profile and effectively utilize AI-driven tools to explore career opportunities in hospitals, pharmaceutical industries, clinical research organizations, and other healthcare sectors. The session also highlighted the importance of job readiness, resume building, and staying updated with emerging digital recruitment practices in the healthcare industry. An interactive discussion enabled students to clarify their queries regarding career planning and employment opportunities.
